Home Construction Contracts and Claims

Everyone knows that when a homeowner is building a new house, or starting a renovation, there are bound to be issues. Most people don't know that the legal issues surrounding home construction projects are often more complex than those involving commercial construction jobs. Ohio has two statutes that govern nearly every home construction issue an attorney will encounter. Join us on December 7 to learn more about Home Construction Service Suppliers Act and the Consumer Sales Practices Act, contracting requirements and strategies involving both statutes, and a few horror stories when either side fails to account for the acts.
